

to show more good-will to males than to females who ought rather to be inquired upon the account of the frailty of their sex and judgment. c. 6. 2. d. 20

curious persons will not be subjected to any punishment for fear of that sort, neither ought Minors to be treated with the same severity as Negroes who are of a more solid frame.

10